ADDITIONAL SERVICES

Road Plates

Road Plates are an essential item for a safe site. Cross Plant only supply plates made from a suitable material. Road Plates may be required to bridge excavations in order to open the carriageway to traffic, for example during traffic sensitive periods, at night or at weekends. Their use must be authorised by a suitably qualified person who will decide on the size and thickness of the plate to be used. The thickness will depend on the width of excavation and the type of traffic expected to use them.

The sides of any excavations must be suitably supported beneath the road plates and they must be rigidly secured to the road surface. Appropriate ramp warning signs should be in place where ramps are present and there is a significant change in the road level, the edges of the road plates adjacent to the excavation should be fenced to prevent falls.

Our standard size is 2000x1200x20mm Cross Plant supply road plates nationwide and we can manufacture any size and thickness your site requires.
